Ecommerce Integration and Service automations

Bacata colombian coffee ~ Ottawa, ON ~ Shopify + Webflow integration

The Challenge

Bacata Colombian Coffee had built a strong local following in Ottawa-Gatineau, generating roughly [REDACTED] through in-person and organic channels alone, with no ecommerce presence. There was no way for customers to order online (other than ubereats), subscribe to recurring coffee deliveries, or discover the brand digitally beyond foot traffic and word of mouth.

Scope Delivered

- Full Shopify storefront (shop.bacatacoffee.com) integrated seamlessly with the existing trilingual Webflow site
- Product catalog with filtering, variants, and real-time inventory enforcement across three package sizes
- Automated subscription engine for weekly, biweekly, and monthly recurring coffee orders
- Payments, tax (Ontario HST), and tiered shipping logic (Clickship / Trexity) with free-shipping thresholds
- Discount codes, digital gift cards, and product review integration for social proof
- English / French / Spanish storefront, Instagram shop linking, and full policy suite (shipping, returns, subscriptions, privacy, terms)
- Automated review campaigns for previous and future customers
- End-to-end QA and launch management

Projected revenue impacted

Modeled from Bacata's current baseline revenue against typical first-year online-channel adoption for specialty food & beverage brands launching a ecommerce + subscription offering:

Scenario	Added Annual Revenue	Increase over Baseline
Conservative	$20,800	+ 13%
Expected	$31,200	+ 20%
Upside	$40,000	+ 25%
